

Pole and collar acclimation

In drug development, time is precious. The proven pole and collar acclimation solution from Envigo Research Products can remove critical days from your animal receipt to study initiation window.

Physical introduction

We place the collar on the primate and it remains on until shipment.
Primates are introduced to the pole according to the following schedule:

- Week 1: 3 times per week for 15 minutes each (total of 45 minutes per week)
- Weeks 2-5: 5 times per week for 30 minutes each (total of 150 minutes per week)
- Week 6: 3 times per week for 30 minutes each (total of 90 minutes per week)

To further improve acclimation and reduce study preparation time, we can harmonize the introduction to acclimate your primates with your preferred study equipment. Study requirements can vary, so please contact us to learn about how we can customize our acclimation procedures to meet your needs.

Envigo is a proven industry leader for the secure supply of purpose-bred primates. We are dedicated to supplying you with the highest quality models and services to support your research needs.
